British Battleships Join in Attack on Ryukyus

Carrier Task Force Helping in Pacific War

Gigantic 35,000-Ton King George V Participates in Assaults

GUAM, Friday, March 30 (AP)—The United States Pacific fleet, headed by a powerful British battleship-carrier task force, poured its might against the Japanese island of Ryukyus where Tokyo said American transports are moving in for an invasion of Okinawa, 325 miles southwest of Japan.

Shortly after disclosing that the 35,000-ton battleship HMS King George V, the 23,000-ton carrier USS Yorktown and other British ships attacked the southern end of the island chain Monday and Tuesday, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today:

"The United States Pacific fleet continued on March 29 to attack shore installations in the Ryukyus with carrier aircraft and with surface gunfire."

The also disclosed that Japanese torpedoes and carrier planes tried to bring blows to the attacking warships Tuesday night during which the planes and "a number" of the boats were destroyed. There was no mention of any damage to American fleet units.

A self-contained task force of the British Pacific fleet, including the mightiest warships, teamed up with the United States fleet for the first time in the Central Pacific in carrier strikes against Japan's Southern Ryukyus last Monday and Tuesday.

Observers here said the British fleet was using "revolutionary methods of operation" to carry out the first long-range strike it has attempted.

British Bomb Airfield carrier planes flying from one of the most powerful ships of the British navy's "battered" enemy field installations in the Sakama group of Japan's Ryukyus islands, which stretch along the main approach to the mainland.

The attack indicated a marked change in the previous methods of the British navy, never before has the British navy used a "floating supply train" of a scale large enough to permit a long-range operation.

News that the British task force was co-operating with the American fleet came as Tokyo reported that at least 500 carrier planes had landed Sunday Japan for 10 days yesterday. They concentrated targets that included the Sasebo and Kure naval bases in what the Japanese insisted "must be considered part of a strategic plan to support the Okinawa operation."

Japan has claimed for days that it has more than 100 warships, with about 100 battleships as its mainstay, dominating the waters of Okinawa, and sending still another task force of "more than ten aircraft carriers."

There has been no Allied confirmation of any landings in the Ryukyus, but Admiral Nimitz has reported continual air and sea bombardment of that strategic group.

Strikes Now Are Reason, Bridges Says

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29 (AP)—San Francisco today told the sixth annual convention of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (CIO) that the strikes now are treason and there is no need for them.

They are a stab in the back of the fighting men," the ILWU president added in opening the session.

Bridges, who headed a committee of unions in the west coast maritime industry of 1934, urged organized labor to stay on the job.

"The battle is still on," he said. "We are in the final uphill stretch of the war now and we need that last push over-the-hump push."

Three American Armies Likely to Be Consolidated, Simpson Says

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Despite a tactical security news about virtually all along the front west front in Germany the pattern of the Allied attack beginning to take shape.

It could be seen clearly in conjunction of the American First, Second and Seventh army sectors along the Rhine into a single front, cutting its way into the heart of the great Central German plain. It can be discerned, too, in the swift development of an encircling threat to the whole congested Ruhr area and the difficult terrain south of it where stiffest Nazi resistance has been met.

The front was raised sufficiently to disclose that its tank columns

Big Three Pact Made in Secret At Malta Talks

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—As the result of a secret agreement by the Big Three at Yalta, Russia and the United States will ask for three votes each in the United Nations Assembly to be proposed at the San Francisco security conference next month.

The White House made this bombshell announcement today. It immediately threatened a split in the American delegation to the conference. It seemed likely also to become a focal point for small nation opposition to big power domination of the international organization.

Vandenberg Opposed
The possibility of a split appeared in a statement by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), a member of the delegation, who said:

"I would deeply disagree with any voting proposal, if made, which would destroy the 'sovereign equality of nations' in the peace league's assembly, as previously proposed at Dumbarton Oaks."

The initial proposal for more than one seat in the Assembly came from Premier Stalin at Yalta, the White House announcement disclosed.

President Roosevelt agreed to support the plan, provided the United States also should have three assembly seats and Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill assented to this.

No reason for this Russian move was given. Diplomatic officials speculated that it probably was prompted by a desire of Moscow to have a representation approaching that of the British Empire.

The controversial development was the second of Russian origin to explode on the pre-conference scene today. The first was a Moscow announcement that the Soviet delegation would be headed by the ambassador to Washington, Andrei A. Gromyko.

All the other powers have announced that their delegations would be headed by their foreign secretaries—among them Secretary Stettinius for the United States and Secretary Eden for Britain.

The appointment of Gromyko instead of Foreign Commissar Molotov was like the multiple-vote proposal, unexplained. One suggestion much discussed here was that the appointment of a man of ambassadorial rank showed a declining Soviet interest in the conference.

Hot in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP)—The highest temperature ever recorded in March in Baltimore—89 degrees—was registered today as Weather Bureau officials predicted fair weather for Easter Sunday with a high of sixty degrees forecast.

Bulgaria, Romania Mail Service Resumed

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—Another door between the United States and Europe was unlocked today. Postal service is restored with Bulgaria and Romania, effective Friday. Cable service is restored with Bulgaria, but not yet with Romania.

The treasury removed its ban on exchange of business and commercial information with persons in both countries.

Except for Italy, they are the first enemy nations with which business communications have been reopened.

Reach Austrian Frontier In Sensational 20-Mile Dash

By ROMNEY WHEELER
LONDON, Friday, March 30 (AP)—Rampaging Red army columns, plunging within forty-three miles of Vienna, reached the Austrian frontier yesterday in a twenty-mile dash across Western Hungary, uprooted three of the Austrian capital's outer fortresses and slashed across a vital German supply line to Italy.

Outflanking Nazi defenses based on the Bratislava gap and the Neusiedler see (see of Vienna) southeast of the Danube city, Russian armored forces captured the border town of Koszeg, fifty-two miles south of Vienna's city limits, and toppled the key Hungarian rail city of Szombathely.

Report Austria Invaded

The Free Austrian radio said without confirmation from the Soviet high command that Marshal Fedor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian army spearheads already had invaded Austria, gateway to Adolf Hitler's southern mountain fortress.

The Austrian broadcast said the Russians had swept into Burgenland province and occupied several villages, and called on the Austrian freedom front to rise in arms. The reported Russian surge across the frontier was the first time that a liberating army had set foot on Austrian soil since that country was annexed to Hitler's greater Germany by the Nazi-enforced Anschluss of March, 1938.

The Red army's breakthrough to the Austrian border in an advance that also won the fortified Hungarian town of Kapuvár, forty-three miles southeast of Vienna and thirty-eight miles south of the outflanked Slovak capital of Bratislava, was announced in an order of the day issued by Marshal Stalin.

120,000 German Casualties

In a second victory announcement, the Soviet premier revealed that Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky's Third White Russian army had completed the liquidation of the coastal pocket in East Prussia southwest of still embattled Königsberg. More than 120,000 enemy troops were killed or captured in eighteen days of battle, Stalin said.

In another huge order of the day, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army captured 18,500 German troops as the Russians battered deeper into the eastern half of Danzig and wiped out a number of coastal pockets along Danzig bay north of captured Gdynia.

The Germans, preparing to abandon Danzig, admitted that the last German defenders were clinging only to the area of the old fortress and said that the great port's harbor installations had been "completely destroyed."

Speed toward Vienna

As radio Luxembourg said a state of emergency had been proclaimed in Vienna, second city of the greater Reich with a prewar population of 1,930,000, Moscow and Berlin reported said an avalanche of Russian tanks, mobile guns and motorized infantry from two armies were plunging toward the city through broken enemy lines on both the north and south banks of the Danube.

On the river's north bank, Berlin said that the northern wing of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian army had lunged seven miles toward the city through the Iron river and had attempted to cross the Nitra river at points forty-seven to fifty-two miles east of Bratislava, the Danube valley between Bratislava city and the northern shores of Neusiedler see, Tolbukhin's army on the south bank of the Danube advanced across Hungary on a 118-mile front, swept up more than 100 villages and took 1,800 prisoners.

Singapore Bombed

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—India-based Superfortresses struck Singapore again today (March 29, Japanese time), blasting oil supplies in this strategic crossroads of the Japanese empire.

Secret Nazi Weapon: This One Is Deadly and Effective, Foreign Information Bureau Says

PORTLAND, Ore., March 29 (AP)—A member of the Dutch underground declared today that the Nazis do have a secret—and deadly effective—weapon.

Jacob Van Berkel, here in Australia, told the Foreign Information Bureau today (March 29, Japanese time), that the European front is now a race between victory for the Allies and Germany's resort to the ultimate weapon—"so powerfully destructive it is almost inconceivable."

"The new weapon, a tiny gadget which could be placed in a rocket bomb, may be launched with complete effectiveness against the continental United States," Van Berkel said.

He declared that the Germans are saving it for a last stand, probably in the Bavarian Alps. "They are confident that their secret weapon will wipe out civilization and save them at the very end."

Van Berkel—fictitious name to hide his identity from the enemy—gave no details, except to say that the weapon does not involve poison gas. He said that, while Allied officials know of the weapon, they do not know in what form it might be launched.

OPERATORS REJECT CONTRACT PROPOSAL

By HAROLD W. WARD
WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins announced tonight after a series of conferences with John L. Lewis and the bituminous coal operators that the latter had rejected her last minute proposal for a new contract.

Lewis and the United Mine Workers had agreed to Miss Perkins' proposal which dropped Lewis' ten cent a ton royalty demand, his major bargaining point.

Up to Labor Board
Miss Perkins said the case would be certified tonight directly to the War Labor Board, the initial step toward possible government seizure, such as followed the collapse of negotiations in 1943.

The secretary said the operators, after rejecting her proposed new contract to replace the one expiring Saturday at midnight, had also refused to agree on a plan for extending the current agreement for thirty days.

Miss Perkins revealed that she had suggested an extension with provision for retroactive payment of any wage adjustments later written into a contract. This same proposal had been made earlier in the week by Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes.

The operators declined to submit this retroactive feature to arbitration either by private or governmental umpires.

Confer again Today
Miss Perkins said the conference would resume tomorrow as usual but she acknowledged the parties would have little to discuss at this juncture in the crucial negotiations.

Miss Perkins said Lewis had consented to drop his dramatic royalty demand, from which it was estimated the union would obtain some $80,000,000 a year, when she persuaded him that "that was a subject which should not be considered at a time like this."

She said the question of payment of a union royalty could well be left for working out between contractors.

$75 Vacation Pay
She explained her proposal contained a $75 allowance for vacation pay as compared to Lewis' request for $100. At present the miners receive $50 in lieu of actual time off.

The labor secretary proposed that the second and third shift differentials be set at four and eight cents as former Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson has suggested. Lewis had asked for ten and fifteen cent differentials. The operators had suggested four and six cents.

On Lewis' demand to blanket in the union all foremen except one at each mine, Miss Perkins proposed that the demand be re-written in conformity with the recent National Labor Relations Board decision in the Packard Motor Company case.

It recognized foremen as comprising a proper unit for collective bargaining, a new stand for the agency to take.

Taxicab Industry Has No Jobs Open

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)—Most industries have been crying for more manpower month after month. Today one group reported just the opposite.

The taxicab companies, they claim to have long waiting lists of applicants for drivers' jobs from people who want to horn in on lush wartime earnings.

High earnings are traceable to the old law of supply and demand. More people spend money on cabs than in early 1942 when the last taxi rolled off the assembly line—hence the demand. But the supply is down since no new taxis have been made in three years.

Spokesmen for the taxicab industry placed cabbie earnings now at between $40 and $60 a week compared with the depression low of around $20.

U. S. First Army Cuts Ruhr Off; 14,000 Prisoners Taken by Third

Americans Meeting with Slight Resistance as They Take City after City in Tank Drive

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
PARIS, Friday, March 30 (AP)—Tanks of the United States First army, scattering ally resistance on a dazzling fifty-five mile sweep, roared up within 186 miles west of Berlin yesterday and all but cut the Ruhr basin from the rest of Germany, thereby robbing the enemy of his last great source of war material.

The British Second army raced across the North German plain under a new blackout, was at least forty-one miles east of the Rhine by last account and was within sixty-eight miles of a junction with the First army. Between the two armies were thousands of Germans in disordered flight.

Take 14,000 Prisoners

While the northern defenders of Berlin's approaches reeled under these tremendous blows, the United States Third army slashed almost half-way across Germany's waist with a twenty-mile eastward surge that netted a total of 14,000 prisoners, a record for one day.

All Germany's great western cities, her last reliance in any long-drawn struggle, were toppling into Allied hands.

Already the Third army had Frankfurt, the Reich's ninth largest city with a population of 546,000. The United States Ninth army had Duisburg, population 431,000, and Europe's biggest river port, almost in the bag, and the United States Seventh army captured Mannheim, population 283,000.

The Germans, realizing the enormity of the disasters in the west, wrote off as lost the entire Ruhr, with such manufacturing cities as Essen—greatest munitions maker in all Europe—Hamm, Dortmund, Düsseldorf and Muelheim.

Cut Important Railway

The First army cut one of the most important railways from Essen to Berlin as well as a superhighway, leaving only two railways still open out of the Ruhr to the capital.

Luxembourg radio said the British had entered the Westphalian capital of Münster, cutting one of these railways. There was no confirmation, but hard-riding British tanks were only seventeen miles away when the news blackout was clamped on.

The United States First army reeled off the longest gain ever made in a single day on the western front, sweeping around the headwaters of the Ruhr river, and completely outflanking the vital production center.

Third Gains Twenty Miles

Simultaneously, the United States Third Army lunged out twenty miles east across the mid-German plain, herding the disorganized enemy before it and rounding up 14,000 prisoners.

At last reports it was within 198 miles of Berlin, but the German radio said the Third army's Fourth armored division had driven at least twelve miles farther on and was within less than 100 miles of the border of Czechoslovakia.

Far to the south, Mannheim, Rhine factory city of 283,000, fell to the United States Seventh Army.

While the United States First Army wheeled abruptly north, and the British Second army—with American infantry riding its tanks—roared up from the west, German broadcasts wrote off the once rich Ruhr, greatest of the enemy arsenals.

The Ruhr, said one enemy war correspondent, was "nothing but one wide field of rubble in which the army and the Volksturm fight side by side with nothing to lose but their lives."

Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead declared in a dispatch from the field that the point near Paderborn was reached at 5:35 p. m. (European time) and armor was rolling on with nothing in front to hold it.

Nazis May Make Final Stand in South Germany

By CHRISTER JAEGERLUND
Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Tidningen for seventeen years who has recently returned to Stockholm.

STOCKHOLM, March 29 (AP)—The American-British sweep eastward through Germany may hasten a development which many Germans have long expected. This is the withdrawal of Adolf Hitler, his lieutenants and fanatical Nazi followers together with the flower of Nazi-educated German youth into the mountain bastion of Southern Germany.

Thrilling Race Looms

In the next few days there may be a thrilling race to this southern fortress in which the speed of the Allied advances from west and east will be an important factor.

From German sources during my stay in Berlin I received this account of Hitler's reported plan:

The area of the Bavarian Alps and the Tyrol long has been prepared for defense. Months ago Hitler formulated plans for a great final battle. The troops and their commanders already have their orders. Members of all party organizations know their places in the final struggle.

Southern Germans often have told how mysterious columns of trucks rolled day and night through sealed mountain areas.

Germans Frightened

In many villages last year the people were frightened by the appearance of great numbers of foreign laborers building bunkers. This was interpreted as meaning that Hitler's headquarters soon were to be established near their home town.

Actually what they were seeing was the building of a new link in a vast fortification system developed in expectation that the war finally would move into Germany's southern provinces.

Before this final mountain stand Hitler expects to lose many troops. He will throw off that part of Germany which is unwilling to join the last battle.

Aided by Quislings

But Germans say he expects to be joined there by refugees from the former occupied countries who have sought protection in Germany, the Quislings of Europe. They say the Russian general Andrei A. Vlasov, who the Germans said joined them early in the Russian war, and his followers already are inside the mountains.

It is clear that many of these refugees are unhappy over the future and would rather slip away. But he who enters the game must finish it. In Berlin German authorities ruled that Quisling journalists who quit their work should impair their work should impair (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Hour of Success Near, Churchill Says as Baruch Arrives in London

LONDON, March 29 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, personal advisor of President Roosevelt, reached London today reputedly to discuss plans for the occupation of Germany with Prime Minister Churchill, who asserted that the "hour of success" was near.

Members of the British war cabinet were ordered to remain close to their posts for the four-day Easter holiday and it was learned that arrangements had been made to call parliament back into session immediately if the German collapse should come during Parliament's eight-day recess.

Churchill's optimistic prediction was made in a letter endorsing a Liberal candidate for Commons in a special election to fill a vacancy.

In the prime minister said:

"The endurance of the British people and the steadfast devotion of the fighting services have at last brought us near the hour of success. Let us now prepare to make sure, for the sake of our country, our empire and civilization, that we reap due and just rewards of victory."

Key Allied commissions which will have the job of administering Germany after the war were said to be ready to move into the field soon and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons "high priority" had been given to the task of arming the Nazis and dismantling their industries.

Rep. Randolph Takes Action on Union Protests

Will Introduce Bill To Ban Nazi Prisoners from Skilled Labor

WASHINGTON, March 29. (P) Legislation to forbid use of war prisoners by federal agencies for any work ordinarily performed by skilled labor is planned by Rep. Randolph (D-W.Va.).

He told newsmen today he would introduce a bill next week to accomplish his objective.

Rep. Randolph's action is believed to be the result of repeated protests by P. Patrick Allender, of this city, business agent of Carpenters Local No. 1024, A.P. of L., against the use of German prisoners of war for skilled labor at the Newton D. Baker General Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va.

In a recent communication to Allender, the congressman from the West Virginia Second District, said: "The difficulty at Martinsburg, and perhaps other places, may be sufficient reason for a clear-cut policy to be drafted by Congress."

Allender and another official of his union visited Martinsburg and witnessed Nazi prisoners of war doing work ordinarily performed by skilled labor. The carpenters union business agent, said many members of his union have sons and relatives fighting the Germans in Europe and they objected working at Martinsburg alongside German prisoners.

In a recent letter to the War Production Board, Allender warned that "the situation is liable to force us (union) to take drastic action in the next few days if there is not something done about it." He added that the union was considering bringing the entire situation to a head by labor's final method.

Dr. Riley Will Attend

Dr. Riley, director of the state health department, and his wife, Mrs. Marian Waters Riley, and Maj. M. M. Miller, of the United States Public Health Department, Washington, D. C., will be here tomorrow for the formal opening ceremonies.

Health committees and municipal officials from all communities of the county are invited to inspect the building tomorrow. The mayor and city council and county commissioners also are expected to attend. The invitation has been extended to the general public and preparations are being made to handle a large turnout of county and city citizens interested in the excellent work being accomplished by employees of the state, county and city health departments.

front of this powerful sweep by the one British and two American armies, and a field dispatch said the situation had become a route in front of the United States First Army.

Junction at Early Date

At the current rate of advance, the British and the United States First armies might come together in the Westphalian plain in little more than two days, laying open the road to Berlin and cutting off all the big factory cities of the Ruhr.

Gen. Hodges' First army tank columns speared through Langwiesse, forty-nine miles southeast of Hamm, eastern exit of the Ruhr, and sixty-eight miles southeast of Haltern, which was overwhelmed by British Second army tanks and the American infantry astride them.

Other First army columns reached nearby Hallenberg and Frankenberg—the latter 200 miles southwest of the western limits of Berlin.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army, which had been moving north earlier in the day, suddenly turned east and spurred twenty miles across the Frankfurt plain almost unopposed, entering Lauterbach, 138 miles from Berlin.

Deepest Drive in West

This was the deepest officially announced penetration from the west. It placed the Fourth armored "breakthrough" division 140 miles inside the Reich, sixty-five miles beyond the Rhine at Mainz, and about 235 miles from the Russians on the east front.

The British breakthrough on the Westphalian plain was scattering before it German troops who were trying to get away in any vehicle available.

Veterans of North Africa, loose in good tank country once more, were impervious to Muenster, Osnabrueck and Hannover—the latter 142 miles west of Berlin.

Ninth Gains Six Miles

The United States Ninth Army on the British south flank charged ahead six miles through the Ruhr under another security blackout and was reported to be in almost complete possession of Duisburg, Europe's greatest inland river port, after capturing the dock area.

The United States Seventh Army on the southern end of the front had crossed the river main on an eight-mile front just south of the Third army front, and was threatening to outflank the black forest, most formidable sector of the Siegfried line, with a push along the Neckar river.

Most of Frankfurt Cleared

Frankfurt, Germany's ninth largest city with a normal population of 546,000 was cleared except for a small section in the northern outskirts.

The United States First Army was driving ahead so rapidly that at one point tanks actually overran an airfield near Langwiesse and shot up eight planes before the startled pilots could get them in the air.

At another point they caught up with a train and turned their guns upon it.

Yanks Invade Mactan Island

MANILA, Friday, March 30 (P)—Elements of Maj. Gen. William H. Arnold's American division, conquerors of Cebu city on Cebu, invaded Mactan Island, directly across a narrow channel from that second port of the Philippines on Wednesday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

The tiny island of Caut, to the southwest in Cebu harbor, also was invaded. Caut is a seaplane base. MacArthur said Opon, the main city of Mactan, was secured. On Mactan island is the biggest coconut oil refinery in the Philippines, set ablaze by Japanese demolition crews Monday when the Yanks landed on Cebu.

On Cebu itself, the infantrymen struck north and south from the demolition-wrecked capital city, capturing Laahug airfield to the north and the town of Naga fourteen miles south.

MacArthur said enemy resistance "still appeared disorganized."

Senate Passes Bill To Prohibit Heart Balm Suits

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 29 (P)—The bill to prohibit legal actions for alienation of affections and breaches of promise to marry completed General Assembly passage in the Senate today as that House fought its way through the last crush of business before sine die adjournment.

This adjournment "leisurely and in good order," was promised for tomorrow by Senate President Lindsay.

The Senate also passed and sent to the governor a bill to define and provide for regulation, licensing and control of businesses or individuals engaged in lending sums up to $2,000.

The disputed bill to authorize a $4,000,000 state bond issue to be used for through highway development in Baltimore city passed 21 to 7 after a lengthy floor fight led again by Senator Campbell.

Against Moses Plan

He reiterated his stand that to vote for the bill meant voting for the Moses expressway plan, which, he said, the people of Baltimore definitely did not want.

Senator Funk (D-Frederick), the majority floor leader, opposed this position. He said the bill was couched in general terms, did not specify the Moses freeway and would have open the specific project to future decision by city, state and federal officials.

A brief but sharp floor fight to defeat a bill which would require a five year residence in Maryland to establish eligibility for public assistance failed as the Senate voted 19 to 10 to uphold a favorable opinion report.

Divorce Bill Backed

Despite statements by Senator Allford that the legislation was "pernicious," and by Senator Byrnes who said the sponsor of the measure "in his misguided zeal is overlooking all motives of humanitarianism," a compromise amendment to reduce the period of residence from five to two years failed by a tie vote of 14-14.

The Senate also rejected the favorable report on House bill 295, which would have increased the public assistance allowances for pauper's funerals, and adopted a resolution by Senator Marvel directing the Legislative Council to "conduct a thorough study of the existing laws relating to funeral directors and embalmers."

This represented the latest in a series of repercussions resulting from "lobbying" changes made on the Senate floor early this week against a member of the State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

Three American

templated in original Allied plans. Defended even by secondary troops, it represented another Aachen or Caserio on a heroic scale and the casualty cost of clearing the foe out of those miles upon miles of natural strong defense positions must have been very great.

Instead the Ruhr valley has been bi-passed both north and south. Now it is in immediate danger of being pinched off in a matter of days if not hours with minimum losses.

Whatever the geographical layout of the Allied attack, its prime objective is entrapment and destruction of enemy troops in the field. The fast closing Ruhr pocket bids fair to yield an even greater toll of Nazi prisoners and casualties than did the swift clean up in the Saarland and Palatinate west of the Rhine. That cleanup paved the way for the mass victory drive into the heart of Germany.

Free Many Prisoners

WITH THE UNITED STATES NINTH ARMY, March 29. (P)—Volkssturm (home guard) troops captured by the Ninth army are being released because of the crowded prisoner of war cages and the problems of having to feed starving enemy civilians in many of the larger German cities.

Rising Reports Of Chaos Come From the Reich

LONDON, March 29 (P)—Amid rising reports of chaos inside Germany the Berlin radio boasted tonight that "German freedom fighters" had assassinated Franz Oppenhef, Allied-appointed mayor of Aachen, and declared that another "traitor" mayor had been blown up with his entire family in the village of Muetzenich, near Monschau south of Aachen.

As the Nazis announced the inauguration of their terror campaign against collaborators, three Japanese diplomats, including Minister Sabura Seguwara, reached Stockholm by plane from Berlin—apparently "fleeing the sinking ship."

Nazi Officials Flee

Swiss dispatches said many high Nazi officials already had taken refuge on the German island of Mainau on Lake Constance, waiting for the war to end and hoping to sneak into Switzerland at the last minute. The Swiss reinforced their frontier guard to prevent such entries.

There were reports of Germans fighting Germans, of riots and mutinies, of public executions and increasing desertions as Allied armies swept across the Reich and the Nazis tried to combat the rising panic.

Germany's high command military commentator, Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, in a broadcast asked the question "is there any sense in continuing the fight?" And then immediately answered it by saying "our enemy wants to annihilate the entire nation and himself gives the answer—'We must fight to the last.'"

Second Mayor Shot

The Berlin radio asserted that Oppenhef, whose assassination at his home in Aachen by three Nazi parachutists was announced yesterday by the Allies, had been convicted by the "national court" for the maintenance of German honor and immediately sentenced to death.

The victim of the second execution at Muetzenich was identified by the Nazi Transocean news agency as a former school teacher named Velten, a "traitor German mayor serving under the Allied military government." It said Velten and his family were killed in an explosion caused by "unknown perpetrators."

Negro "Peeping Tom" Pays $20 Fine

C. E. Banks, negro, 144 Thomas street, was fined $20 in police court Tuesday on a charge of disorderly conduct after police caught him "red handed" and barefooted in South Cumberland early Tuesday morning.

Banks was arrested by Officers Fred O. Daum, C. E. Woods and C. G. Roby after police were notified that the man was peeping into the home.

The officers surprised Banks in the act of looking in between the window sill and the window blind which was drawn to within a few inches of the sill. The man's shoes were later found about twenty-five feet from the house.

Mannheim Almost Surrenders to Allies by Phone

MANNHEIM, GERMANY, March 29 (P)—This city almost surrendered by telephone.

After the Americans occupied the northeast third of this once great inland port and artillery was blasting away at the main part of the city south of the Neckar river yesterday, the phone rang in a captured power station and a war-weary civilian asked that the shooting please be stopped because the German soldiers were all gone.

A skeptical American officer told the speaker to get the burgomaster to the telephone. The burgomaster came and declared over the wire that he was surrendering. Later he had to retract — by telephone.

The trouble was that the German soldiers had not gone and their commander refused to listen to the civilians' pleas to halt resistance. The Americans granted a short respite from the shelling yesterday afternoon to await some real sign of surrender. None came and the barrage was resumed at 6:10 p. m. by twenty-six battalions of artillery and continued through the night.

The enemy finally was driven out shortly before dawn and the doughboys mopped up after daylight.

Six Functions Outlined for Proposed Dams

(This is the third of four articles discussing the comprehensive, $250,000 flood control program which Army engineers propose for the Potomac River Valley.)

BY DONALD SANDERS
Washington, March 29 (AP)—The 14 dams recommended by Army engineers for control of the Potomac river and its branches would perform six functions:

The program, which will have its first formal airing at a hearing before the Engineers' Rivers and Harbors Board next Tuesday, calls for construction of the dams over a 20-year period at a cost of $255,000,000.

Approved by the board, the chief engineers and by Congress is necessary before the program can be launched.

say the dams will perform these functions:

1. Generate hydroelectric power;
2. Increase the water flow during dry spells for dilution of domestic and trade wastes which are now commonly discharged into the Potomac and its tributaries;
3. Increase the flow during dry periods for domestic and industrial water supplies;
4. Reduce the rate at which silt is deposited in navigable channels of the tidal portions of the Potomac below Washington;
5. Create new recreational areas; and
6. Moderate floods and flood damage.

Annual Value $15,700,000

All these functions, engineers estimate will have an annual value of $15,700,000, broken down this way: Flood control, $253,000; water supply, $170,000; pollution abatement, $573,000; highway facilities, $69,000; recreation, $289,000; navigation, $13,000; water power, $14,345,000.

Since it is the generation of electric power which is the controlling economic factor in the plan, Army engineers report, "the marketing of the potential water power becomes of prime importance in determining the feasibility of such a development."

"A survey of the probable markets in the nearby region indicates the possible utilization of the potential power in the reasonably near future."

The propose that the power be utilized in Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and in the Potomac basin itself. Since the Potomac has never been developed in this respect, Baltimore and Washington have had to go to such places as Conowingo and Safe Harbor, Pa., for hydroelectric power.

Levees, Channels Necessary
Flood control benefits, originally the principal aim of the engineers' studies, would accrue principally in the approximately 50-mile stretch between Harpers Ferry, W. Va., and Washington.

Engineers found that the dams alone would not solve the flood problem, and that local levees and channels are necessary in some localities in the basin. The water supply benefits would be realized principally by residents of the Washington metropolitan area; pollution abatement benefits would be in the Washington and Cumberland, Md. areas.

Highway benefits would result from carrying the proposed George Washington memorial parkway across the Riverbend dam instead of over a new bridge in the locality.

Benefits to navigation would accrue from retention of silt in the dams, eliminating the necessity for periodic dredging of silt now deposited in Washington harbor. Recreation facilities in the proposal include the purchase of additional lands around each reservoir, navigation locks at the Chain Bridge, Bear Island and Riverbend dams, and landscape treatment at the Bear Island project.

Won't Wipe Out Falls

"The navigation locks would allow recreational craft to proceed from Washington to Harpers Ferry through the three lower reservoirs and parts of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal," an engineers' report says.

"Although the annual recreational benefits were assumed equal to the annual cost of these facilities, it is probable that such benefits will exceed the cost."

Some criticism has been leveled at the project on grounds that it would wipe out the Great Falls on the Potomac, or at least minimize the natural beauty.

Engineers deny this. The Riverbend dam above the falls would be two miles away and around a bend they say, and the Chain Bridge dam, constructed in an inconspicuous location, would be landscaped and would not inundate any of the actual falls.

"The flow over the falls under present natural conditions," the engineers comment, "fluctuates widely each month, rising sharply after each rain and falling to less than average a few days later, x x x The effect of the reservoirs in ironing out the wide fluctuation of the flow should tend to make the falls even more impressive than they are at present. x x x"

"During the summer and fall months, when most visitors enjoy viewing Great Falls, the regulated flows during the daylight hours would be about one-third greater than are now experienced."

Cumberland Loses a Splendid Citizen

PARTICULARLY APPLICABLE in the passing of Perry A. Nicklin, beloved Cumberland business man, are those sweetly solemn words written by Fitz-Green Halleck in 1827 on the death of Joseph Rodman Drake: "None knew thee but to love thee, nor named thee but to praise."

For Perry Nicklin was generally beloved by the people of his home town, in which he grew from childhood to mature age and worked his way up from the bottom rung of the ladder to a position of usefulness, influence and esteem, and none knew him but to say words of praise about him. That was due not merely to a kindly disposition but also to his splendid character as he was a man of firm integrity and loyalty.

This newspaper was keenly aware of his fine qualities as a citizen and a friend. For a number of years Mr. Nicklin served as a member of the political advisory editorial board of The Cumberland News, in which capacity, which required regular weekly sessions, he proved himself not only a wise Republican party advisor, but also an enthusiastic supporter of the humanities of civic pride and of community welfare. He was unselfish in his patriotic devotion, uniting in his efforts to make his home community a better place in which to live and to advance the interests of his state. His outlook was ever on the brighter side and he carried always a vision of better things ahead and of the needs for planning for them.

The honorable and worthy career of this citizen affords a striking exemplification of the American way of life with its opportunities to fulfill ambitions and its means of progress. As has been the case of many an American youth, his start up the ladder was not easy. But he mastered all difficulties through rigid determination and self-help until he came into a position of eminently responsible and leadership, attaining a place therein of enviable degree. There was appropriate recognition of his ability, his party service and his sane political outlook in the calls that came to him for public duty in both city and county governments, wherein he served well.

Widely traveled by reason of his business connections, Perry Nicklin had friends in many places and these thousands share the deep sorrow that obtains among all the people of this community over his untimely departure. He was active in fraternal, business and religious organizations as well as in civic affairs, always generous to a fault in his ready willingness to lend a hand in the brotherhood of man. In all these circles his friendly countenance and his cheering words will be missed, indeed. All can say fervently, as Halleck wrote, "Green be the sod above thee, Friend of my better days" for the days were better in many ways when Perry was here and now it is with poignant regret that we all come to realize that those days with their pleasant associations are to be there no more.

Maryland Legislators Help Peace Movement

MEMBERS of the General Assembly are to be commended for their action in adopting a measure which will quibble a resolution affirming the world-wide right of interchange of news with free and equal access to the sources thereof, and urging that the United States delegations to all peace conferences provide guarantees of free speech and free press.

Governor O'Connor, too, is to be praised for his action in the measure and declaring that it represents something meriting the "unqualified approval of every freedom-loving American."

Thus another impetus is given the crusade instituted by American newspapermen to bring about news freedom as one of the essential steps toward preventing future wars, which is the great desideratum of every right-minded person.

The movement was started prior to the Versailles peace conference under the leadership of Kent Cooper, now general manager and executive director of the Associated Press, who revived it in this war and gave it big momentum by his revealing book, "Barriers Down."

A delegation of American newspaper editors is carrying the crusade abroad and their colleagues were successful in obtaining endorsement of the principle at the recent Mexico City conference. It is good to see it achieving so much headway.

Steps toward World Peace Security

JOHN FOSTER DULLES, international lawyer and Republican adviser on world affairs, is quite right in his declaration that the Dumbarton Oaks security plan is but a first step toward organized world peace. It represents a fine step, the chief value of which has been that of bringing the nations together in a fellowship on which so much hope rests that an effective permanent peace structure can be erected.

Until that is achieved the conflicts of interests will necessarily have to be settled by power, as Dulles said, and all can hope with him that this power will be potential and not actually applied, which depends "above all on the wisdom, self-restraint and the unity of the peoples and leaders of Great Britain, Soviet Russia and the United States."

Hoover has contributed some valuable suggestions. One, previously noted here, is that power to exercise force against aggression should be in the executive's hands and with the help of congressional leaders. Others are that the political rights of nations and men should be proclaimed in the world security charter; that provision be made for revision of onerous or inapplicable treaties at, say ten-year intervals; that there be more definite regional organization of the whole machinery of the charter; that absolute disarmament of the enemy be made positive and enforced; that there be immediate relative disarmament of the United Nations and that time enough be taken in formulating the charter of peace to do it right.

Sacrifices Making For a Better World

FOR THE FOURTH SUCCESSIVE YEAR the observance of Good Friday finds this nation engaged in a bloody war, with millions of the young men of the country far from their homes and loved ones. Millions of parents, wives and brothers and sisters are filled with deep concern. Worried minds are myriad and broken hearts are numerous. Suffering, whether mental or physical, has become commonplace.

Almost everywhere in the world blood is being spilled and tears are being shed. The dreamy islands of the Pacific are disturbed by the boom of cannon and the cracking of the rifle. Mountains of Europe to which the thinker once repaired for quiet contemplation have echoed to the violent crash of the bomb and the thump of the mortar. Proud cities in which men of the world have long felt perfectly secure have become heaps of rubble. And the end of the turmoil and the strife is not yet in sight.

The world is passing through a tragedy which gives the heart of man a certain kinship with the heart of the suffering Christ. He, who was wholly innocent, underwent horrible torture for the salvation of mankind—a paramount example for those free of guilt who are suffering today. Sacrifice, which is the keynote of Christianity, is also the means of building a better world.

Sacrifice is the characteristic of the soldier who valiantly gives his life in behalf of his fellowmen. And the noble sacrifice of the soldier is transformed into lasting consolation for his loved ones. As munitions leaders frequently emphasize, it is only through sacrifice that the type of world that civilized men can cherish can be brought into being. And it is only through sacrifice that it can be maintained.

Though the army at first denied statements in this column that quick-releases are necessary, they have now been ordered. But production has been slow, and many in the home front are not yet sufficiently equipped.

Bretton Woods Veto
Despite the overwhelming vote of the people last November for international co-operation, a majority of the House Banking and Currency committee is preparing to report unfavorably on the Bretton Woods agreement—first test of the willingness of Congress to participate in international organizations.

There has been overwhelming support of Bretton Woods from Church, labor and business groups but twelve Republicans on the committee and two Democrats are ready to vote against the agreement as it now stands. The Democrats are Barry, of New York, and Baldwin, of Maryland.

Lobbying against Bretton Woods has been conducted by the top layer of the American Bankers Association—which wants bankers free to make both long and short-term loans abroad without any government control. The attack has been leveled against the stabilization fund, without which the international bank would be largely futile.

The committee majority will probably not vote against the entire agreement, voting instead to tag various amendments which will necessitate another international conference. Treasury and State department officials are doubtful

A Gift for Happiness

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The longer I live the surer I am that the greatest possession any human being can have is a gift for happiness.

I'm not sure I have it. Despite all I can do about it, I am something of a worrier. Small things upset me, throw me out of stride.

I tend to be irritable and irascible and in many ways I sabotage my own happiness.

Nevertheless I KNOW that a talent for happiness is the gift of all gifts for any man or woman.

I do not mean that silly, Pollyannaish cheerfulness that is glad when one leg is broken that you didn't break both of them. Nor the shallow philosophy that calls this the best of all possible worlds when everybody knows it can stand considerable improvement. Only a confirmed pessimist could call this the best of all possible worlds.

But the man who is the one who has a solid basic cheerfulness about life and can take its blows, disappointments, and sorrows without going to pieces, who does not take every grief as a personal insult—and who accepts all of life as a stimulating adventure.

He need not be a bubbling, gurgling, grinning, and laughing individual, but he must be a man (or woman) whose fundamental enjoyment of life is so real nothing can damage it permanently.

I have known a few human beings of that sort and they stand out in my memory like mountain peaks. Perhaps no man merely by taking thought can change his nature or repair all the damage of the years by any man can say:

"That other fellow has found a better way of life than I have known and I CAN try to imitate his happier methods."

And even though a man is fighting suffering and battling a strong undercurrent of happiness can run through it, he says and does

Old-Fashioned Parachutes Still Drag Men To Death but Army Orders New Type

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It has now been over a year since this column exposed army tardiness in ordering the quick-release parachute, but unfortunately the old-fashioned triple-release harness is still dragging some victims to death.

Latest tragedy was Lieut. Joseph H. Burton, Jr., of Los Angeles, drowned in the Warwick river, Virginia, after he was unable to unbuckle his parachute. The body, when found last week, showed that Lieut. Burton had been able to unfasten one buckle, but not the other two. The parachute was wrapped around his legs and had dragged him under water.

The quick-release parachute features a little metal box worn on the chest, permitting the parachute to get out of its harness in ten seconds, instead of laboriously unfastening three buckles under the thighs and over the shoulder. Though the army at first denied statements in this column that quick-releases are necessary, they have now been ordered. Roosevelt and Al Smith
It was the late Al Smith who more than anyone else persuaded Franklin Roosevelt, then discouraged by his physical setback, to run for governor of New York in 1928. The race gave PDR his real start toward the presidency. Later Smith was bitterly critical of Roosevelt's domestic issues, but with the war they became more friendly. And when Al died last October, Roosevelt paid him a great tribute in his Boston speech.

Today a modern housing project is being built near Oliver street, the humble East Side district where Al Smith was reared. And to commemorate the man who came out of the slums to be governor of New York, a committee is raising money to build a plaza in the center of the housing project. It will contain a fountain and a plaque to the memory of Alfred E. Smith.

When the fund-raising committee wrote President and Mrs. Roosevelt, asking for a contribution, a check for $10 came back from war-bus Franklin Roosevelt with no letter; another check for $10 from Eleanor Roosevelt with no letter.

From Tom Dewey came a check for $50 with a beautiful letter.

UNRRA Confirms
This column recently told how a British colonel, posing as an UNRRA worker in Greece, had been found with receipts showing payments to Greek right-wing factions to encourage them to fight the Greek left wing. Simultaneously, the British Information Service issued a denial.

Later in the day, however, Reuters, the British news service, telephoned the UNRRA public relations office and asked for comment on the story.

"What comment?" asked the UNRRA representative.

"You're going to deny it, aren't you?" said Reuters.

"No," replied UNRRA, "the story's true."

New General Handy
Least-known of the newly promoted full generals is Gen. Thomas T. Handy, deputy chief of staff. If you look him up in Who's Who, you will find that he merely says he was born in Tennessee. He does not say where, and he does not list his father or mother.

Fact is that the general's father was Rev. T. R. Handy, an itinerant Methodist preacher who spent fifty years shepherding his flocks in the mountains of southwestern Virginia and Eastern Tennessee. His father sent young Handy to college at Emory and Henry, a church school near Bristol, because it made special concessions to preachers' sons.

But the general also fails to list this in Who's Who, perhaps because he was asked to leave by the faculty when a professor came by and saw a freshman being mildly bazed. Actually, Tom Handy was just looking on, but the professor suspected him of being the ringleader.

That was the turning point in Tom Handy's start toward becoming a full general. He went to the Virginia Military Institute, was graduated, won a decoration in France, along with MacArthur and in the same operation. After the war he taught at VMI, the same school from which Gen. Marshall was graduated. During the years of peace, when other officers were playing golf, bridge or polo, Handy was working night and day. Quiet, shy, confident, he went through all the advanced schools.

In the last three years he has risen from lieutenant colonel to full general and is now deputy chief of staff, the right-hand man to Marshall. Probably his father never had a church which paid him over $1,200, but on that he raised four boys and a girl including one of the

Although Representative Albert Carter, California, lost out last year to George P. Miller, Carter is drawing $3,000 per year plus overtime on the congressional payroll of Representative Al Elliott. Carter is a Republican, but is being paid by a Democrat. . . . Mary Ellen Smith draws $7,375 per year on the payroll of her stepfather, loud-mouthed Representative Paul Stewart, Democrat, of Antlers, Okla., but Miss Smith puts in the major part of her time as a student at George Washington university. . . . The Senate Small Business committee is preparing to investigate monopolistic control of the movies. Sparking the move is Committee Counsel Dewey Anderson, who ripped the movies apart several years ago when on the temporary National Economic Council. . . . Movie producers—on short rations of raw film—were furious to learn last week that the army has turned over for disposal as surplus property 15,000,000 feet of unused movie film. What burns them up especially is that the army held the film until it was out of date and much of it will probably be useless. . . . Senator Glen Taylor, Idaho's singing cowboy, is turning out to be an excellent addition to the Senate. Besides being a forward-looking legislator, Taylor is one of the few members whose voices can be heard throughout the chamber and the galleries. . . . Those who expected great things from Arkansas' young J. William Fulbright now are not so sure. . . . Yalta-hating Representative Alvin O'Konski, of Wisconsin, has already scheduled a two-hour speech in the House for May 3, Polish Constitution day. He intends to analyze the San Francisco conference then.

Leadership Need Is Seen Stressed By Manpower Bill

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 29—Few things could illustrate better the breakdown of the administration's leadership, as well as the collapse of any leadership, Republican or Democratic, in Congress on a major issue than the hedge-podge that has been made of manpower legislation.

The public hasn't been told the facts, because the whole story puts the finger of blame on all the leaders and especially on the blunders of the administration in handling the manpower problem from the very beginning of the war.

The controversy is not of a partisan nature. It is the same old story of friction and divided responsibility inside the administration, jealousies between governmental agencies, and a refusal on the part of the president to face the consequences of more than three years of drifting on the manpower problem.

Conflicts behind Friction
Behind the friction, too, is the incessant conflict between the military and civilian points of view. The War department, which has done so well on the field of battle, has displayed in its intercourse with Congress and with governmental agencies generally an ineptitude which is hardly describable as good "public relations." There is a distrust of army estimates in the civilian agencies in nearly everything largely because the army has hidden its mistakes behind the cloak of censorship so that it is difficult even for members of Congress to get the facts.

The main conflict, of course, has been between the Selective Service system and the War Manpower Commission. These two agencies represent two different viewpoints in handling manpower. It is not believed to be wholly a matter of responsibility, but largely a difference in approach. Left to its own devices, the army administrators, who know so little about public psychology and especially about the psychology of the workers, would soon have the home front frustrated and then they probably would blame labor or management or both. The War Manpower Commission, on the other hand, thinks it understands the civilian problem better.

Hitch on Authority

For a time on Capitol Hill certain members of Congress couldn't find out whether the higher-ups in the War department favored one agency or the other to administer the measure. Finally the new bill agreed to by a conference committee of both houses turns the matter over to James P. Byrnes. The fact that a man had to be selected who could be trusted presumably by all groups and who has had a knowledge of both civilian and military problems is proof that no agreement could have been had in Congress by selecting either the Selective Service system or the War Manpower Commission.

The public outside of Washington cannot get at these conflicts of views and feuds between departments of bureaus. It trusts Congress to do that job. But Congress has floundered and finally in desperation appears ready to delegate blanket authority to one individual, realizing, of course, that he must in turn delegate it to others. No worse example perhaps can be found of delegation of power without legislative standards. Congress is no longer an alert legislative body standing up for its right to legislate or to prescribe standards. It is acquiescing in any kind of an agreement that seems to pass the buck and transfer responsibility outside of the legislative branch. But in the end, the public will suffer from the confusion and the "hate-Roosevelt" cry will be raised as the reason for the blame.

Real Fault with Congress

Mr. Roosevelt has a certain responsibility for the failure of his own agencies to get together on a control of manpower in the same way that America finally got a control of raw materials working. But the real fault lies with the way Congress is evading its legislative responsibility with a bill that places arbitrary power in government agencies and affords no court review for the citizen when arbitrariness has done its full damage. Not alone industries and businesses essential to the war effort, but necessities of life are going to be controlled by the new legislation.

In the end, the measure will doubtless be interpreted so as to penalize the employer. As for workers who strike, they probably will be immune from interference because under the Wagner act ruling it is stipulated that an employee does not go off the payroll list but remains an employee even when he strikes. Some senators already are saying strikes are not banned by the new bill.

Babson Declares Postwar Jobs Will Hinge on Schools

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., March 29—Our president and the Congress, I respectfully submit, are sadly in error if they believe that our domestic Problem Number One will be to find sixty million jobs. That might be relatively easy. The really tough core of the postwar crisis will be to find sixty million people—or even half that number—who are equipped to fill jobs! By all odds the most likely material for employment will be the returning servicemen: They are truly trained.

Neither warfare nor peacetime business has any real use of high-school hoodlums who are physically unconditioned, mentally unequipped, and spiritually undisciplined and unprincipled. Our major postwar worry will be these barrel-bottom scrapings, for they will not only be unemployed, but unemployable. How are the schools going to dispose of the worthless product which they have manufactured?

Fruits of "Education" Worm-Eaten

It is not my intention to scold. In fact, I can frame no criticism half so caustic as the stark conditions that shock you on every hand. For several generations now, our flaccid educational systems have been under test. By war pressure we have been forced at last to audit and appraise the end results. They are stunningly inadequate—as might have been predicted by any personnel officer, employer, or analyst of social trends. Rather than wait until dire crisis bursts upon us, is it not more sensible to face this potential disaster in advance, while remedy and repair are still possible?

Matchless opportunity is open to the schools to reorganize and tool up anew for improved performance. War has liquidated some things and liquified all things. In this current flux, the school committees have an ideal chance to redeem themselves—if only they will devote themselves to reform instead of defense, attack, and apology. Better schooling is a prime step toward fuller employment.

Military Shows Schoolmasters

You have been reading, as I have, accounts of the all but incredible effects of the specialized training given to army and navy personnel. Literally armies of men have received such training in hundreds of courses covering languages, mathematics, and technical skills. Compared with the corresponding records of traditional schooling these new military methods have proved their startling superiority. Subject for subject, the service trainees have absorbed far more knowledge and wisdom in far less time. This training has taken advantage of up-to-date aids; viz. films, records, models—unknown to the old reschoolhouse. Yet it has forced them to THINK.

If our school committees jump to install movies, soundies, and what not, but otherwise refuse to mend their ways, I forecast they will only score a more spectacular failure. Behind and beneath the near-miracles achieved by army and navy instruction, the radical difference in basic attitude of both teacher and taught. In the old fable, the hare out-raced the fox, because the fox was running merely for his dinner while the hare was running for his life.

Committees the Key Commitment

Why have our educators, broadly speaking, failed throughout all these many years to inspire their civilian trainees with the vital purpose of education? In my view, this tragic inability to reach and fully teach their pupils can be traced back chiefly to one agency. I would pin this school guilt primarily upon the school committee. You know and I know of good committees and good members of shabby committees—but let us take the law of averages.

As long as control rests in the clutch of individuals who intellectually and spiritually are scandalously unfit, there is scant hope that the schools can be renovated by powerful superintendents, underprivileged teachers, absentee parents, and immature pupils. The educational stream remains polluted at its springs. The employment problem will be to procure employable people. To attain this, de-louse the school committees. Spotlight members of the shady, self-seeking political brand and give them dishonorable discharge.

Yes sir, Jimmy Byrnes fended everybody in and then Mayor LaGuardia opened the gate. The Little was blossomed out with an extra hour for New York but so, the rest of us are still short of time.

You all know LaGuardia, Mr. Byrnes. He had a zoot hat. But didn't defy the federal edict about good reason. He had to give the extra hour to clear the streets, because under the 12 o'clock curfew the traffic congestion was so bad he was getting to the office after they were out.

The service men have to obey the 12 o'clock deadline. One civilian in a cocktail in his hand was being next to a soldier smoking a pipe and the civilian said, "I'll die you a snort for a drag."

and they had a little excitement New York the other night. They caught there was a German sub in Hudson river but later discovered it was just some ingenious New Yorker shuttling Jerseyites across the extra hour.

Washington is afraid to get too tough with LaGuardia. They're afraid he'll put his hat over the rest of New York and sever relations with the rest of the country.

Home Rule Bills Believed Dead For This Session

By FRED STABLEY

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 29 (AP)—There were a lot of "dead ducks" in General Assembly committee files today as sine die adjournment neared, but none more conspicuous than the fine feathered home rule bill which started so clamorously in its General Assembly flight.

Introduced on the first business day, Jan. 4, in the Senate, it was shot at considerably in the upper house before fluttering haltingly into the House.

Killed by White
There the bill's eye shot was fired—consignment by House Speaker White to the Corporations committee of what was left of the Legislative Council endorsed program.

This committee, its chairman, Delegate Rickert (D-Anne Arundel), said today, has held only three meetings in the entire session—the last several weeks ago, and has at no time brought any part of the "home rule" plan to a formal vote.

This disclosure was in no sense a revelation, since White all along had opposed the idea. He fought it through its legislative council days, accused the council of adopting it as its own when some of the opponents in the body were absent and promised its death in the House.

Had the bills ever come to the House floor, supporters maintained, they would have had a good chance of passing despite White's influence, but consignment to a minor and what they called "a well-controlled committee" was held to be a sure coup de grace.

Purposes of Bills
The three home rule bills in original form would have extended legislative and executive powers of county commissioners, set down blanket prescribed prerogatives for officials of incorporated municipalities throughout the state and removed from the General Assembly by constitutional amendment these same powers.

The county commissioners' bill passed the Senate after hot floor and committee fights that saw Senate President Lindsay the staunchest supporter of "home rule" in the Assembly, relinquish the chair and carry the battle on the floor.

It was amended to exclude thirteen of the state's twenty-three counties and some of its provisions were reworked almost beyond identity with the original.

The municipal corporations measure was dealt with similarly, finally passing in considerably revised form with seven counties exempted. The constitutional amendment proposal never did get through, attaining a simple majority but failing to get the three-fifths vote needed to pass.

With one day remaining of the 1945 session—both house chiefs said today adjournment would come tomorrow—it still was possible to revive the "home rule" bills now in the corporations committee, but no leadership to push across such a move was evident.

Rickert said they were the only bills remaining in his committee and that he might call another committee session "if I can get the men together. Most of them are on the finance or judicial proceedings committees and are always tied up when I want to have a meeting."

To most General Assembly observers, however, there is no chance at all for any part of the program in the closing hours.

"You might as well write the obituary right now," said one.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

Backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about it. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

Kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 quarts of urine each day.

The 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging aches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting or burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help flush out 15 miles of kidney tubes. Flush out poisons from the blood. ### Soldier Granted Divorce By Judge W. A. Huster

A degree of absolute divorce of Ervin D. Sherman, in the army, from Mrs. Hallie Virginia Sherman, Franklin, was signed Wednesday in circuit court by Chief Judge William A. Huster. Sherman was represented by Thomas Lohr Richards. Represented by Julius E. Schindler, Mrs. Lena R. Piper filed suit for partial divorce from Jesse Piper. Judge Huster ordered Piper to pay Mrs. Piper $32 a month for the support of their two minor children, pending decision in the case. Mrs. Piper asks custody of the children. Mrs. Annie Pryor filed an answer to a divorce action docketed last week by Raymond E. Pryor, represented by Estel C. Kelley. Mrs. Pryor, represented by Edward J. Ryan, contended that the $12 a month paid her by Pryor since 1927 is not sufficient for her support.

She said that Pryor earns $200 a month as a machinist for the B. and O. railroad.

House Inquiry Launched into Food Situation

Feeding of European People Being Discussed

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP). — House investigators organized today to learn just how much rationed America can afford to feed hungry people abroad. A committee headed by Rep. Anderson (D-NM) will cover the whole field of food, he said, to learn the causes of shortages, "so that corrective action may be taken promptly."

It took up its job at a time when the OPA, saying supplies are short, added canned peas and asparagus to the list of foods which will cost more ration points beginning Sunday.

Will Cover Wide Field
"The committee will review the food procurement and stockpiling policies of war agencies," said Anderson. "It will inquire into any possible foreign relief feeding commitments and examine policies that may govern the shipment of food abroad."

With this background, his statement added, "the committee will then turn its attention to specific groups of commodities such as meats, dairy products, fats and oils, sugar and canned fruits and vegetables."

Peas and asparagus were hiked ten blue points per No. 2 can, to thirty for peas and twenty for asparagus.

On the brighter side, OPA reduced point values for tomato juice from twenty to ten points per No. 2 can. Other cuts were on sweet cherries, from forty to twenty points per No. two and a half can, and plums and prunes, from twenty to ten points per No. two and a half can.

OPA had already announced boosts on pork and pork products, lard, shortening, margarine and salad and cooking oils.

International commitments of which Rep. Anderson spoke were the topic of a White House conference between President Roosevelt and two British cabinet ministers, J. J. Llewellyn of food and Oliver Lyttleton of production. The British ambassador, the Earl of Halifax, sat in.

Purposes of Conference
They came here at the president's suggestion as part of Roosevelt-Churchill efforts to find "means of dealing with the food shortages in liberated areas," as the White House put it.

Lyttleton said afterward that "the electric victories of the armies are going to make it a very urgent matter" to appraise supply conditions fully.

A reporter asked whether Allied food supplies are going to stretch far enough to care for liberated countries. Lyttleton replied that the armed forces and belligerent populations supporting them must be looked after first.

Asked whether there was any truth in a story from England that the British supply of meats and fats is more ample than the American ration, Llewellyn replied:

"As minister of food, I wish it were."

Feed Many Prisoners
Secretary of War Stimson told his news conference that the army is now feeding more prisoners of war, Allied personnel and rescued Axis prisoners than ever anticipated. This demand, he said, had driven down army food stocks to such a point that a breakdown in supply lines could be dangerous.

The Senate Banking committee today approved extension of price controls another year past June 30, leaving it up to OPA to work out adjustments in policies to which some business groups have objected.

These policies include the handling of price ceilings on live cattle and wholesale meat. Packers have testified before the Senate Agriculture committee that they are being driven bankrupt or into government control as things now stand.

In still another food action, the War Food Administration set up an "Office of Investigative Services." This followed statements in Congress that information leaks had enabled speculators to make millions in the grain markets.

In 1923, there were 23,653 veterans with tuberculosis admitted for treatment in veterans' hospitals or other federal agencies.

Wellsburg, Pa., Boy Is Injured by Car

Leslie Emerick, 8, Wellsburg, Pa., was admitted to Allegheny hospital shortly after noon Wednesday after being struck by a car near his home. The child suffered brush burns about the face, arms and right leg and may have sustained injuries of the head and right wrist. His condition is "fair," hospital attaches said.

The boy was brought to the hospital by his father, Lester Emerick. He told attaches that Elmer J. Brady, Hyndman, Pa., was the driver of the car which struck his son.

German Gets Directions; But Not Ones Expected When Asked of Americans

Two Cumberland soldiers weren't joking when they disarmed a lost German soldier who had crawled to the edge of their foxhole to ask directions—so the enemy soldier discovered.

The foxhole experience of the local men, Pfc. William Lantz, husband of Mrs. W. R. Lantz, RFD 4, and his buddy, Pvt. Gerald Harmon, also of Cumberland, was described in a French newspaper and sent by Lantz to his wife.

According to the newspaper clipping, the local men were whispering together in their foxhole when a third whisperer in German joined theirs and asked for information concerning their whereabouts. A German soldier, with his gun across his shoulder, was on his hands and knees at the edge of the Americans' hole.

Lantz, the clipping continues, reached out, pulled the German into the hole and disarmed him. Still thinking the foxhole tenants were on his side, the German jokingly asked them in German, to return his weapons.

Instead of his weapons and the requested directions, the German was informed that he was a prisoner. He was also relieved of the message he was carrying from his battalion to a company post.

Lantz, father of two children, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks Lantz, Williams road.

23 Youths Leave For Navy Tests

One of the twenty-three youths from the Cumberland area who left Wednesday for final navy tests in Baltimore is the fifth member of a Mt. Savage family to enter the service, according to Chief Petty Officer Walter B. Warmee, in charge of local navy recruiting.

The youth is Ronald Vincent Bridges, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Connor Bridges, Mt. Savage, who have four other sons in the service. They are Clinton O. Bridges, 32, seaman first class, who has been on sea duty for more than a year; Cpl. Daniel C. Bridges, 24, who is serving in the Pacific area with the army; Pvt. Orville E.

Bridges, 22, who is in France; and Gerald H. Bridges, 20, who was recently assigned to sea duty with the navy.

Chief Warmee also announced yesterday morning for Washington, D. C., where he will take flight tests before entering the navy as an air combat crewman. Smith, a graduate of Flintstone high school in 1940, will return to his home on inactive duty after taking the tests.

Two other youths who went to Baltimore yesterday for their final physical examinations before being assigned to general service in the navy are Harper N. Lewis and Stanley S. Craze, Jr., both of Frostburg.

The United States normally consumes sixty-three per cent of the world's petroleum and 66.4 per cent of the world's rubber.

Nine More Confirmed As Full Generals

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—The Senate confirmed unanimously today the promotions of nine lieutenant "enrals" to the rank of full general.

British Kitchen—1945!

IMPERATRICE . . . Dessert made with evaporated milk.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Miss Annette Snapper, consumer service expert, has just returned from a trip to England where in co-operation with Food, Labor and Information ministries she investigated every angle of public feeding. She visited schools, community kitchens, hospitals, hotels, and industry. Her visits to home kitchens in city and country should be interesting to us particularly in view of our tightening ration picture.

It is no longer bad form to discuss food in Britain, Miss Snapper says! Talk at any British dinner table is likely to center around sharing recipes. It's a real and difficult problem for them, and they've discovered things which can be of help to us.

Here are some home recipes which Miss Snapper brought back with her and which are certainly of interest to us.

Cabbage Faici

1 head cabbage, 2 slices bacon, 1/2 pound carrots, 1 pound potatoes. Take a fairly big cabbage, remove outside leaves and cut the bottom part flat. Let it cook in slightly salted water for about ten minutes, so that it is half cooked. Drain. Take inner part out carefully with a fork, leaving an inch and a half of thickness of cabbage. Now fill with left-overs such as cooked scraps of meat, chopped carrots, diced potatoes, the chopped inner part of the cabbage—and a little gravy. Be careful not to destroy the shape of the cabbage. Cover opening with the outside leaves and tie up with a string. Now rub the whole cabbage lightly with a greased paper. It makes the dish very tasty if you tie a slice of bacon on the top and bottom of the cabbage. Put it on a greased tin and place in oven for about twenty minutes. You can also fill the cabbage with

Imperatrice

4 servings rice pudding, 4 halves canned peaches, syrup from peaches, whipped evaporated milk.

Fill individual dishes with rice pudding and place a peach half, cut side up, on each serving. Reduce syrup from peaches and pour over. Fill hollow in peach with whipped evaporated milk.

First put the can of milk into boiling water for about five minutes. Take it out, cool, and chill in refrigerator until thoroughly cold. Now it will whip.

Carrot Cookies

1/2 pound carrots, 3 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening, 5 tablespoons self-raising flour.

Cream together the shortening and nearly all the sugar, reserving 1 dessert spoon full. Grate carrot and beat into shortening and sugar. Fold flour in lightly until dough is soft and creamy. A tablespoon of water may be added if carrots are dry. Drop spoonful of mixture into greased patty pans. Sprinkle tops with sugar and bake twenty-five minutes in 375 degree oven. Eat hot or cold.

Character Often Solves Question Of War Marriage

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Should a girl who is desperately in love insist on marrying a soldier about to start for the front, even though he himself warns her that in six months or a year he may come back to her seriously wounded? Or should the two content themselves with an engagement, deferring marriage until the war is over and a safe prospect lies ahead? Betty G., whose story this is, writes me: "You see, Miss Fairfax,

I am 25 years old, so that I should be able to decide things for myself. I have never been really in love before and I am willing to take any risk. I can support myself and also a baby if I had one. Though I am not actually plain-looking, I am not the type of girl men fall in love with readily.

"Now, John does love me, but so unselfishly that he doesn't want us to marry now. He is slightly melancholy and has a hunch that he'll come back minus a leg or worse than that. But I am cheerful enough for two and if he is injured, I want to be the one to take care of him. And don't you agree with me that it is I who should decide this matter? You have helped so many people. Do send me your answer promptly."

BETTY G.
The answer to such a question as this, which of course comes up often, depends, I think, on the character of the girl. A flighty 18-year-old is fortunate, I think, if her fiancé insists on postponing marriage because she usually isn't wise enough to understand the risk she would be taking. She hasn't enough knowledge of herself to know whether she is capable of facing life with an invalid husband—in case things turned out that way. But I'll admit that with Betty G. the case is different. I believe she is old enough and sensible enough to decide the matter for herself, and since she is sure that

Two Local Youths Are Sentenced to House of Correction

Charged with taking a truck from a parking lot on South Liberty street last Monday, two local youths were each sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction after a hearing in trial magistrate Bruce said Shifflett, 18, 936 Gay street, and Patrick Dentinger, 19, 109 Decatur street.

The youths are Ellis Shifflett, 18, 936 Gay street, and Patrick Dentinger, 19, 109 Decatur street. Magistrate Bruce said Shifflett was discharged from the navy several months ago because of "bad conduct."

They were arrested after Lt. R. Emmett Flynn and Officer J. Carl Stouffer traced a stolen truck to a spot near the Cumberland municipal airport at Wiley Ford, W. Va. After being questioned in the state's attorney's office Wednesday the boys admitted taking the truck from the parking lot on South Liberty street and also stealing two other cars since March 8, police said.

Magistrate Bruce said that Shifflett was on parole from juvenile court on a charge of burglary and also for stealing a car, adding that Dentinger, a former inmate of the Maryland Training School for Boys, has been involved in three cases of "unauthorized use" of cars.

Soldier Is Held

Pvt. Andrew Wetzel, Grand avenue, is being held in the city jail on a charge of being AWOL from his post at Camp Gruber, Okla. He was arrested Wednesday at 11:30 p. m. by Cpl. Amoret and Pfc. Fontaine. MP's said the soldier had no pass or furlough and would not disclose how long he had been "over the hill."

LISTEN, WORLD!

—By Elsie Robinson
(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

THEY FOLLOW WHERE HE LED
Gethsemane, Golgotha and Easter dawn—they seem so long ago. Two thousand years. So set apart from all other days. For these, above all others, are the times we share, regardless of our color or our creed.

Christian or Jew, Hindu or Mohammedan, each one must follow where the young Christ led. For He, though God, was also Man—as human as the one who's stationed in the Solomons or France.

Our world, like Christ's, is wracked with tyranny. Like Him, we're pledged to hate injustice from our birth. Like Him, we fight for truth and liberty. Like Him, our dearest dreams are sacrificed. So, in his time, each one of us must go to some dark place apart and kneel and weep—and play this cup may pass. For no man lives without Gethsemane.

And no man lives without some traitor's kiss... or passes through life without the jeers, the lies, the lash, the crown of thorns. The cross. This is our bond. The bond for which Christ died—that all men might be brothers through His understanding and His pain. And so today we kneel in memory.

"Yet still men hate," you say, "and still they fight and die." "Where is my son?" the stricken mothers cry. "You say their young feet follow where He led? But tell me where He led. Does life still have any ending but in death?"

He did not end in death. His mission did not finish with Golgotha's trail nor in good Joseph's tomb. The tomb was empty and the stone that sealed it rolled away on Easter morn. And He who'd shared his human misery, walked free. To start another life—somewhere—with Spring.

"Where is my son?" you cry. I think he walks with Him—along the trail they shared in life and death. He walked with him when he went laughing to a holy war—when he gave up his young, courageous flesh that other men might live.

He did not voice it in such solemn words. He joked and cussed and wisecracked with a Tommy gun and hated all this filth, unfair mess. And growled about K rations and burnt beans.

And yet I'm sure they dreamed and died together like two boys. And woke together to another day. And walk together on the endless trail to Spring.

B and O Needs Brakemen

At least thirty brakemen are needed immediately to work out of this city on the Cumberland division of the B and O railroad, according to Edgar J. Mitchell, manager of the local office of the railroad retirement board.

Mitchell pointed out that the critical shortage of brakemen exists because of recent drafting of men between the ages of 29 and 34. Those interested in applying for the jobs are urged to call at Mitchell's office on the second floor of the post office building.

MT. SAVAGE FARM GROUP DISCUSSES STRIP CROPPING

A discussion of contour strip cropping was held Tuesday night at the second meeting of the recently organized Mt. Savage Soil Conservation group, Robert E. Laramy, soil conservationist, said.

Laramy, who was discussion leader at the meeting held in Mt. Savage Community Hall, said the discussion centered about advantages of contour strip cropping, how to plow and plant crops under that method, how to lay out fields for strip cropping, rotation of crops in connection with strip cropping, and how to control accumulations of water by diversion terraces and sod waterways.

Members of the group who attended the session have been practicing contour strip cropping to some extent in the past two years, Laramy said, and are familiar with conservation practices.

The meeting Tuesday night was the last of two winter meetings but Laramy said an outdoor summer meeting is planned and probably will be held on a farm where contour work is in progress.

Heifrich Requests Data On Street Program

Stating that he wants more information on the current street repaving and repairing program, Hunter B. Heifrich, commissioner of streets and public property, said Wednesday that he has asked Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, not to advertise for bids for black top without informing him of specifications, the names of streets to be paved, and an estimate of the costs.

An order was passed by the mayor and city council Monday, instructing Rizer to advertise for the bids. Heifrich said, however, that the city engineer works under the street commissioner and that such an arrangement has always been recognized.

Rizer said he plans to prepare lists of streets needing resurfacing and those needing repair work. He added that after the streets are selected he will estimate the amount of black top needed and will ask for alternate bids for a hot and cold mix of a minimum tonnage.

Heifrich declined to attend a recent council conference at which street paving was discussed, and Monday he voted against the order instructing Rizer to advertise for bids.

Clarence Broadstock, Arch street, was fined $10 in police court Wednesday by Magistrate Frank A. Perdue on a charge of disorderly conduct and resisting an officer.

The Arch street man was arrested Tuesday evening by Officer James W. Brown after he created a disturbance in a Virginia avenue tavern. When the officer arrived to quell the disturbance, police said, Broadstock resisted arrest and attacked the officer.

Broadstock, who came out second best in the struggle, was treated for two severe lacerations of the head inflicted by the officer's nightstick.

Sentinel Eleven Battles Seniors To 6-6 Deadlock

Fort Hill Concludes Spring Practice; Prospects Are Good

Coach Mel "Newt" Henry and his Fort Hill high griders served advice on their 1945 rivals yesterday when they wound up spring practice by holding a rugged and powerful senior eleven to a 6-6 deadlock.

The history of Fort Hill's spring workouts goes back to nearly two months ago when twenty-seven boys, all hold-overs from last season's squad, were called out by Henry. Punting, passing and special plays were stressed and when weather permitted, workouts were held outdoors.

About two weeks ago, the Hilltop tutor issued a call for newcomers and sixty more boys answered. However, Henry lost no time in cutting this contingent and yesterday when practice was officially ended, the squad numbered around forty.

During the past two weeks, the squad was drilled on fundamentals with holdovers from last season instructing the newcomers.

Six boys who played more or less regularly last fall when Fort Hill lost only to Allegheny in the annual "tossing day" classic give the sentinels the basis for another great eleven this coming fall.

Three All-City Griders

The holdover first-stringers are Billy McBride, 170-pound junior who was all-city center in 1944; Ed Siebert, 165, junior, all-city guard last fall; "Zeke" Ziller, 168, right end who started three games last season; Al Shaffer, 165, regular end and tackle in 1944 but moved to right half-back; Dick Grove, 190, all-city tackle in 1944 but moved to right half-back; and Dick White, 170-pound left halfback who started most of last season's tussles.

Lapp was on last season's third team while Mangus was also on the squad in 1944. The only substitute used by Henry in the well-played game was Jimmy Mangus, sophomore fullback who was on the third team last fall.

Cal Hunter Injured

Although they didn't get into yesterday's game, Henry regards Lawrence Hansrote, Billy Frye, Owen Turner and Elmer Freeland as good prospects. Hansrote, a center, scales 160 pounds and was on last year's third team. Frye, a sophomore quarterback, was also on the third team last fall, as was Turner, a guard. Freeland, an end, was also on the 1944 squad.

Cal Hunter, who won his letter as a halfback last season, tore a cartilage in his knee during a recent workout. A 155-pounder, he has lots of speed and is expected to make a strong bid for a starting position in the fall.

Henry said that John Brown, whom he regarded as another good prospect last year, failed to turn out for the spring session.

The Seniors, packing lots of weight and in good condition, gave the schoolboys quite an afternoon and following the game, Coach Henry declared he was well pleased with the showing made by his gridmen.

The Seniors lined up with Warren "Chesty" Squires and Don "Bubbles" Whiteman at the halfbacks; Ralph Beard, fullback; "Ace" Jewell, quarterback; Don McGill and Ray Lapp, ends; Stanford Zollner and Joe Pellier, tackles; Bob Miller and Eddie Williams, guards, and Billy Goldborough, center. "Putt" Putt Brown, Tevis Durbin and Nelson Sensabaugh also played for the Seniors.

Seniors Make Comeback

Directed by McGill, Squires and Lapp, the Seniors came back late in the fourth quarter to score and

Oklahoma's Aggies Win Court Diadem

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)—The Oklahoma Aggies, N.C.A.A. champions, won the national mythical basketball championship tonight, defeating DePaul, of Chicago, the invitation tournament winners, 52 to 44, in a benefit game at Madison Square Garden that turned more than $50,000 over to the Red Cross.

New York university, after being ahead nineteen points with ten minutes to play, had to go all out to defeat Bowling Green, 63 to 61, for third place.

Nova, Baksis Meet In Garden Tonight

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)—Lou Nova, the reformed Yogi man, and Joe Baksis, the reformed coal miner, will clash tomorrow in the third consecutive ten-round heavyweight headline bout at Madison Square Garden.

Nova, whose career has been notable more for such things as the cosmic punch and dynamic stance, his adherence to the Yogi philosophy and odd diets than for consistent ring performances, now is being handled by the veteran manager, James J. Johnston. And the pre-fight publicity has made it appear that Baksis will fight both Nova and his pilot.

The assumption is that Johnston won't stand for any foolishness and will influence the 30-year-old Californian to fight the way he did when he whipped Max Baer and Tommy Farr a half dozen years ago.

Baksis, who rose from obscurity last year to become one of the elite wartime heavyweights, also is on trial. He came out ahead in a round-robin against Lee Savold and Tami Mauriello, but in his last Garden start he was whipped by Lee Oma.

Nelson and Sneed To Resume Feud

DURHAM, N. C., March 29 (AP)—Byron Nelson and Sammy Sneed will try to break their own six-all deadlock and set a new seven-triumph record in the Durham open golf tournament starting tomorrow.

Jimmy Demaret scored six victories during the 1940 season and this figure was tied by Sneed and later by Nelson this month.

Lord Byron, victor in the last two tournaments, at Charlotte where he beat Sneed in a double playoff and at Greensboro, also won at San Francisco, Phoenix, New Orleans and Corpus Christi. Sneed came home first at Portland, Los Angeles, Richmond, Calif.; Guilford, Miss.; Pensacola and Jacksonville.

Sneed was sixteen shots off the pace in the Greensboro open which Nelson won last Sunday with a thirteen-under-par 271.

A triumph here also would enable Nelson to emulate another 1940 feat—Ben Hogan's clean sweep of the Carolina tourney trail at Asheville, Greensboro and Pinehurst.

Craig V. Craig, who won the first annual Durham open over the Hope Valley course here last year with 721; Sammy Byrd, runnerup to Nelson at Greensboro last weekend; and Harold (Jug) McSpaden are among the other pros who may give the co-favorites trouble.

The Durham open offers $6,666 in war bonds. Single rounds are scheduled Friday and Saturday with thirty-six holes Sunday.

earn a draw. The Sentinels made their six-pointer late in the third period when Shaffer passed to George Lapp, who shot a lateral to White. The latter sprinted forty yards for the touchdown. A pass intended for the extra point was incomplete.

The Seniors, after taking the kickoff, drove deep into Fort Hill territory and after having several marches stopped, finally bucked the ball across with Beard totting the leather. Whiteman's kick for the point was blocked.

Fumbles were costly to both teams. Whiteman and Sensabaugh were Fort Hill's top threats on the offense with White getting into the open a number of times. However, the speedy Whiteman and Squires started on the defense for the Seniors and often caught Sentinel ball-carriers from the rear after they had flashed into the open.

Squires, Ray Lapp, Miller, Durbin and Sensabaugh, of the Seniors, are all in the lineup. Lt. Gene Hook, former Fort Hill and Cornell grid star, was umpire; "Bobby" Cavanaugh, referee, and Vernon Wharton, head linesman.

Carver High Boys, Girls Reach Cage Tourney Finals

Tri-State Athletic Union Titles Will Be at Stake Tonight

The Tri-State Athletic Union basketball tournament finals tonight at the state armory will find both the Carver high boys' and girls' teams shooting for championships.

Last night, the Carver high boys went on a great last-stand rally to nip North Street high, of Hagerstown, 36-30, after trailing 28-16 at the end of the third quarter.

The Carver lassies went to the finals by eliminating Douglas high passers, of Leesburg, Va., 15-4, and will meet Storer college's sextet, of Harpers Ferry, W. Va., for the title tonight at 7 o'clock.

The Carver high court trailed 7-4 at the quarter and 19-9 at the half but pulled the game out of the fire during the last two minutes. With the score 29-28, Hagerstown, Davis made a foul for Hagerstown, and then Jimmy Williams meshed two baskets to put Carver in the lead. A doubleheader by Earl Redman and another twin-playoff by Williams completed the scoring. Williams had seventeen points and Redman thirteen for Carver while Johns sparked Hagerstown with

In the boys' finals at 8 o'clock tonight, Carver will tangle with the winner of the class last night between Summer high, of Martinsburg, W. Va., and Storer. Due to Storer's late arrival for the tourney, last night's program was changed and the other semi-final tussle wasn't over until after midnight.

The Carver girls limited Leesburg to one basket—a doubleheader by Stewart in the third period, Carver led 6-0 at the quarter, 10-1 at the half and 13-3 after three periods. Eleanor White paced the winners with six points.

In first-round boys' engagements, Storer defeated Lincoln high, of Frederick, 36-33, and Hagerstown won over Douglas, of Leesburg, 15-11. In the other girls' battle, Storer bested Martinsburg, 26-4.

Storer, sparked by William Dinkins' twenty-three points, led Frederick 6-3 at the quarter and 22-12 at the half but trailed 29-24 at the end of the third stanza. Hagerstown rallied in the last half to top Leesburg's boys. The lineup of Carver's games:

Any item made of critical materials like leather, wood, textile or rubber is rapidly disappearing from the shelves and stock rooms of sporting goods dealers.

Schools, athletic groups and some members of Congress are disturbed about this shortage, and have asked the OCR if anything can be done about the situation.

The only answer is for civilians to scrape up equipment that has been tossed aside, the OCR said, since little or no relief can be expected from the government due to heavy demands by the military.

Since September, 1944, the War Department has been taking most of the newly-manufactured athletic equipment in preparation for V-E day.

When Germany falls, the army will have to keep many men occupied in Europe, and one of the best ways to do that is through athletics," the OCR pointed out.

Bucks, Michigan Top Swim Field

By NEVA ACKERMAN
ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 29 (AP)—A small but select field of seventy athletes from midwest and eastern colleges will compete for eleven individual titles and the team championship in the twenty-second National Collegiate Athletic Association swimming meet tomorrow and Saturday.

Michigan's squad, Western Conference champion seeking its thirteenth NCAA championship, and Ohio State are co-favorites for the team title with Cornell an outside possibility.

Because of travel restrictions most of the eastern contenders are sending only one or two swimmers after individual titles. Yale, last year's winner, and the usually strong North Carolina, Army and Navy teams are not entered.

The nation's top sprinter, Eugene Rogers, of Columbia, is expected to take individual meet honors and the banner race may be his meeting with Michigan's Captain Merck Church in the 100-yard free style Saturday night.

Although Paul Murray, of Cornell, holds the top breaststroke rating, the 200-yard race will be marked by a renewal of the feud of Hein Kessler, of Michigan, and Vern Olajima, of Minnesota, co-champions of the Western Conference where both finished in 2:35.8.

Schools represented include Cornell, Columbia, Ohio State, Michigan, Wayne, Michigan State, Iowa, Minnesota, Princeton, Canisius, Northwestern, Rensselaer Polytechnic, Indiana and Purdue.

RED SOX WHIP YANKS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 29 (AP)—Home runs by Bob Johnson and Nick Polity helped the Boston Red Sox defeat the New York Yankees, 12 to 6, today in the first of nine exhibition games between the two teams.

Red Sox blanked the Yankees with two hits in the first five innings, with Francis (Red) Barrett yielding all the Yankee runs in the four he worked.

The Red Sox banged Walter Dubiel, Floyd Bevins and Allen Gettel for sixteen hits, Center Fielder Leon Culberson having a perfect day with four hits and a walk.

Sauer beat the Tribesmen almost single handed, for he homered in the sixth inning and started the Cutters' two-run rally in the eighth with a double to force the game into overtime.

Sports Equipment Shortage Is Acute

By BUS HAM
WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—Don't lose any balls out in the brush this season, brother, or you may not be able to play another day—the wartime athletic equipment shortage is becoming that acute.

The Office of Civilian Requirements today made this disclosure, and admonished:

"Sports-loving Americans who want to go on getting their exercise in athletics ought to start digging into their attics and basements for balls, bats and such equipment."

Any item made of critical materials like leather, wood, textile or rubber is rapidly disappearing from the shelves and stock rooms of sporting goods dealers.

Schools, athletic groups and some members of Congress are disturbed about this shortage, and have asked the OCR if anything can be done about the situation.

The only answer is for civilians to scrape up equipment that has been tossed aside, the OCR said, since little or no relief can be expected from the government due to heavy demands by the military.

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

The Raw Deal against Racing
Having no connection with the turf, or the race tracks, in any form, offering an unbiased opinion, we still feel that racing has received the rawest deal of all sports.

Baseball, a nationwide sport that still needs more promotion, has been justly given the so-called "green light," to get by with whatever it may have left.

Football through 1944 had one of its big years—including an attendance record of 91,000 at the Rose bowl game and over 71,000 at the Sugar bowl game—from California to New Orleans.

Army, Navy and Notre Dame either broke or tied attendance records of former seasons.

Mike Jacobs, of Madison Square Garden, set new records with his boxing shows where thousands, each Friday night, paid in from $80,000 to over $100,000 to look at what "we had left" do the best they could.

Basketball has set a new attendance record at the Garden, and throughout the country. And basketball players have covered many a mile to carry out these dates.

The pro golfers have covered the map from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Headed by Byron Nelson and Sammy Snead they have played before big crowds from San Francisco and Los Angeles, through Arizona and Texas and Louisiana, and through Florida to the Carolinas.

Through only a few days ago at Greensboro, N. C., they had from 10,000 to 12,000 spectators moving in from around the neighboring map, to follow the play. Of course, they all walked those eighty or 150 miles. They didn't use automobiles.

There it stands, Baseball—football—boxing—basketball—golf—tennis—track and field—(contestants coming from as far away as Sweden)—even wrestling—but the skulk and cross-bones—the black light goes up against racing. Racing has been the one sport that has been wrecked, stopped colder than a frozen carp. Why? They tell you it is because of gambling.

Gambling? I suppose no one ever bets on football, basketball, baseball or fights? Only about $700,000,000 a year? Or maybe more. You'd be surprised — if you only knew.

More about Racing, Gambling
Racing was wiped out by James Byrnes and Major General Lucius Clay after the German breakthrough and the German bulge. Racing was the most vulnerable target in sport. The curfew and other restrictions followed later. Few know that baseball and football are also on the borderline of oblivion.

Everyone knows or ought to know that baseball, football, and a few other sports burn up just about as much gas as racing does. I still believe these sports should be continued, as long as they don't interfere with any part of the war effort.

This is all entirely up to our army and navy and draft board authorities. Now about gambling. A recent Gallup poll put racing in seventh place, so far as the numbers of bettors or players were concerned. The same poll proved that over forty-five per cent of the country bet on one thing or another—dice, cards, bingo, football, baseball, racing, boxing or something else. We'll bet on anything. And who can stop it?

Millions Want Racing

And you might remember this—twenty-two of our forty-eight states voted for racing—including such states as New York, California, Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, etc. They made racing and betting legal. And racing from these states turned in over $57,000,000, not including the vast sums it gave the federal government. I still think this is important. But what is more important is this—millions of people in this country want racing. Morale? No. Relaxation and entertainment—yes. As soon as possible. What else does baseball, football and boxing have to offer? The only important morale belongs on the fighting fronts. Not on any home front.

Properly directed, racing can run at no greater cost than baseball or football. What the players lose is none of my business for if they don't lose it one way, they'll lose it another way. But when they lose it at the track the states and the government get most of it. (Releaved by The North American Newspaper Alliance).

pected from the government due to heavy demands by the military. Since September, 1944, the War Department has been taking most of the newly-manufactured athletic equipment in preparation for V-E day.

When Germany falls, the army will have to keep many men occupied in Europe, and one of the best ways to do that is through athletics," the OCR pointed out.

Fort Hill's Nine Opens Next Week

Fort Hill high school baseballers, who opened practice this week, will launch their 1945 campaign a week from tomorrow when they tangle with Randolph—Macon academy tossers at Fort Royal, Va., Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh announced last night.

Mentor Cavanaugh said between thirty-five and forty candidates answered the call for candidates. Others are expected to report next week following the close of spring football drills.

Batting, fielding and throwing have occupied the Sentinels this week and another workout is on the schedule for today, Cavanaugh reported.

Five boys who saw regular service last spring form the nucleus of the Fort Hill nine. Heading the pitching corps is Darl "Ace" Jewell, a holdover while Eddie Siebert again will do the catching.

Vernon Penner and Ralph Beard, who shared first-base chores last year, are battling it out for the job but there's a possibility Beard may also spend part of his time in the outfield.

Don "Bubbles" Whiteman, regular third sacker in 1944, will probably be moved to shortstop. Others with experience include Allison Twigg, who started at second base in Fort Hill's early games last season, and Bobby Frye, a catcher.

Les Fouts, former coach at Massanutten Military academy, Woodstock, Va., is now tutoring the Randolph-Macon outfit and he and Cavanaugh recently completed arrangements for next Saturday's contest.

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, Andrew W. Robinson Sr., who died March 29, 1945.

He whom we have missed in every way, and after daily looking at his vacant chair, may sleep on, sleep on dear, in God's care.

LOVING WIFE, SON JR., AND HIS BROTHER, LOVING SISTER, LOVING DAUGHTER.

In loving memory of our dear husband, William H. Greenawald, who died March 29, 1945.

One year ago you left us, how we miss your loving face, you left us to remember, none on earth can take your place.

No one knows the silent heartaches, only those who have lost a loved one, of grief that is here in silence, for our dear one we loved so well.

From the world of pain and sorrow, to the land of peace and rest, God has taken our dear one, where you have found a eternal rest.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

Governor Signs City Employees' Bonus Measure

Law Provides Additional 10 Per Cent Increase for 250 Persons

Governor Herbert R. O'Connor yesterday signed Senate Bill No. 272, which provides for a special tax to be levied upon taxable property of Cumberland and gives approximately 10 per cent bonus for the duration of the present war and for six months after its termination.

The bill, introduced by Senator Robert B. Kimble, January 31, authorizes and directs the mayor and city council to levy a special tax for each fiscal year, beginning April 1, 1945, and continuing for the duration of the present war and for six months after the termination thereof. The special tax is not to exceed the sum of fifteen cents on each $100 worth of assessable property.

Provisions Are Defined
The mayor and council, according to the act, shall expend the proceeds derived from the levy and collection of the special tax, first, to the payment of wages and salaries of all general city employees with the exception of temporary or casual employees in an amount equal to twenty per cent of the sum of money paid said employees either on an hourly or monthly basis as of March 31, 1943, and second, to use any proceeds not expended for wages and salaries for general purposes of the city in order to provide for deficiencies in revenues caused by conditions created by the war. The additional twenty per cent in salaries and wages shall be considered as a bonus payment to general city employees to provide for rise in costs of living for services rendered to the city, and the authority and direction to levy the tax or any part thereof for and the payment of said bonus shall cease six months after the signing of an armistice or the conclusion of the war by peace treaty, whichever shall first occur.

The governor also enacted into law other measures relating to legislation for Allegheny and Garrett counties. They included:

At a meeting of the collection committee, held last night in the offices of the Community Chest which is the central headquarters of the drive, four sub-committees were appointed to handle the collection of the clothing, sought for distribution to residents of war stricken countries that have been freed from enemy rule.

The meeting at city hall, presided over by Mayor Thomas S. ## CEC Chairman Urges Appraisal Of Postwar Plans

Smith Is Informed of Concern over Possible Unemployment

Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker Corporation and chairman of the national committee for Economic Development, has written Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce, advising him of the necessity for all community CED chairmen to make a realistic appraisal of the status of business postwar planning in their respective communities.

The local committee is headed by Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, and was named about two years ago. The committee coincides with the chamber of commerce's postwar planning committee of which Burke also is chairman.

Hoffman based his letter on discussions he has had recently with officials of the Office of War Mobilization, the Department of Commerce, the army, the navy, the War Production Board and the War Manpower Commission.

Moderate Cautious
Uppermost in the minds of all officials, Hoffman stated, is the necessity of giving unquestioned priority to the war effort, not only now but also between V-E day and V-J day. There is no doubt that V-E day will bring some decrease in the demand for war material, he said, but added that in view of the present fury of the Pacific war, the present estimate of the cutback following V-E day is moderate.

Government officials feel deep concern over the possibility of a deterioration in home front morale when Germany collapses, which might result in the slowdown or stoppage of war production and prolong the Japanese war, Hoffman said.

He pointed out that all officials recognize that cutbacks following V-E day will result in considerable immediate unemployment, and that if this unemployment is continued for too long, a dangerous situation might result.

Must Plan Ahead
By their own forward planning to make the necessary shifts from a two-front to a one-front war and then to peace, Hoffman said, but the armed services and the WPB are trying to make certain that they will not contribute to unnecessarily prolonged unemployment. He added that officials in Washington recognize the necessity and desirability for business enterprise to plan similarly to meet its own transitional problems when they come.

It is in the light of the present war situation that Hoffman urged every CED community chairman to make an appraisal of business postwar planning in his community. If, when total employment estimates are tabulated, the community is still faced with prospective unemployment, Hoffman said, efforts should be made "to raise the sights of its enterprises. Time is running out on us and any planning activities which have been lagging should be stepped up."

Win Team Demonstration

Miss Loar announced that similar contests are open again this year for 4-H club girls. The winners of each contest will represent the county in the state competition to be held in September at the University of Maryland. Contestants who win state championships will receive a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress next fall.

Nurses Chosen as Escorts

Burke Estimates $200,000 Needed For Airport Work

A minimum of $200,000 will be necessary for buildings, roads, lights and other improvements at the Cumberland airport, Edmund S. Burke, chairman of the airport committee, estimated at a meeting held Wednesday night.

Burke pointed out, however, that that expenditure will be a good investment and said the city should get back the money within ten years.

At the session, the committee decided to ask the mayor and council on Monday to take immediate steps to request the Civil Aeronautics Administration to complete the grading and pave Runway No. 5, and also to make immediate plans for access roads, fencing, incidental lighting and a parking area.

Consider Business Operation
The committee also will urge the city to form a policy regarding the financing of an administration building and operation of the business end of the airport.

In addition, the committee decided to ask the city to consider such questions as:

Will the city finance the cost of an administration building and attempt to lease concessions? Will the city attempt to get some outside concern to finance and erect the administration building, with the city receiving ground rental and a provision for the return of the building after a certain number of years?

Will the airport be operated by the mayor and council? Will the airport be operated by a manager to be selected by the council? Will the airport be operated by a commission to be appointed by the council?

More than Half Finished
Harry SNAAR, resident engineer of the CAA, reported that work contracted to the Grandview Construction Company is about sixty per cent completed while drainage work is ninety per cent finished.

The Grandview firm is preparing ground to extend Runway No. 1, preparing ground for Runway No. 2, making part of a fill for Runway No. 3 and preparing ground for a strip and a plane parking apron. Blacktop topping of runways is expected to start after May 1 with the DeMatteo Construction Company holding the contract for the work.

After hearing an appeal from G. Wyatt Brenaman, member of the Civil Air Patrol, the committee passed a motion to ask the council to place a qualified person in charge of the airport to enforce rules and discipline and thus prevent accidents.

Army Doctors Aid Health Officials At Chest Clinics

Co-operation on the part of medical officers in the armed forces is proving most helpful in finding tubercular persons among rejected draftees, it was revealed yesterday by Mrs. Margaret Hanson, public health nurse of the Maryland State Health Department, who is in charge of monthly chest clinics conducted in city hall.

Cards containing the names of those rejected by the armed forces because of chest diseases are forwarded to the health department by army examiners. Then public health nurses visit the homes of rejectees and after them the services of the chest clinics. The patients are X-rayed and treatment is suggested. In numerous cases hospital care is recommended.

Praises Arrangement
The arrangement between the army and health department for aiding these people with chest diseases is excellent and many rejected draftees have visited our chest clinics for advice," Mrs. Hanson said. "Not only do we aid those afflicted but the plan gives us an opportunity to compare army X-ray charts with those taken at Memorial hospital."

A total of forty-three persons were examined by Dr. Isadore Lyon, clinician, at the monthly chest clinic of the health department which was concluded yesterday in city hall. A number of those turned down by military examiners were among those who kept appointments. Twenty-two were examined Wednesday and twenty-one yesterday, Mrs. Hanson reported.

21 Persons X-rayed
Fifty per cent of the forty-three examined were new patients and twenty-one were X-rayed at the hospital.

Assisting Dr. Lyon at the clinic were five public health nurses, namely, Mesdames Hanson, Mary Whitfield and Isabel Laughlin and the Misses Grace M. Hartman and Anna P. Hardy.

The type of service a man renders to his fellowmen, and the service he gives to his community, state and nation are far more important than anything else in his life, Dr. Henry T. Stahr, president of Hood college, told members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at their weekly meeting in Central YMCA yesterday, in speaking on the subject, "Citizenship and Service."

Stressing five standards by which he said men are usually measured, namely—wealth, ability, family descent, education and character, Dr. Stahr said a good character is the most essential. A man who puts service above self, who is willing to serve unselfishly is a man to cherish as a friend and brother, he added.

Wealth is one of the standards by which men are measured, and while it is important to acquire money to take care of one's needs as well as to provide for his comfort in later years, it is not the final standard to measure the worth of a man, Dr. Stahr asserted.

But a family background is considered by many as a standard to measure a man, the college president told the Kiwanians. It's a fine thing to have a good family background but it is not the most essential standard, he added.

The ability of a man is important, Dr. Stahr declared, and gave an example of how Eugene C. Grace, through his ability, rose from an employe in the mill to the presidency of Bethlehem Steel Company. However, even ability is not the final standard to measure a man, he said. American industry today is looking for men of ability, men who have the qualifications to move ahead and make progress, the speaker declared.

Dr. Stahr termed education an important standard, but he said after many years as an educator he was convinced that much of education is snobbish. Education is tremendously worthwhile, the speaker asserted, and added that he was in favor of more education, but that education in itself was not the measure of man.

If a man has character, we can overlook his lacking some of the other standards, Dr. Stahr said in conclusion.

Several Ministers Will Participate In 3-Hour Service

Several ministers will participate in the Good Friday three-hour devotional service to be held in Centre Street Methodist church, of which Dr. Walter Marion Michael is pastor.

The service will open at 12 o'clock with Mrs. Kenneth R. Beck, organist, playing an organ prelude. This will be followed by a hymn, the collection and pastoral prayer. The Rev. Edward H. Davis will read the scripture lesson after which Cletus Hartsock will sing "Calvary." The congregation will then sing a hymn.

The "First Word" then will be discussed by the Rev. J. William Merchants, minister of Union Grove church. The congregation will sing a hymn after which "The Second Word" will be the subject of a talk by the Rev. Ray L. Henthorne, minister of the First Christian church. Following a hymn there will be a period for silent prayer, after which Mrs. Ethel Zimmerman will sing "Behold I Stand at the Door Knocking."

The Rev. Harris M. Waters, pastor of the Mt. Savage Methodist church will discuss "The Third Word," after which a hymn will be sung by the congregation, followed by another period of silent prayer. The "Fourth Word" will be the subject of a talk by the Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. A hymn will be sung followed by silent prayer. Miss Josephine Williams will then sing "The Cross-Bearer."

"The Fifth Word" will be discussed by the Rev. Lee H. Richerick, pastor of Central Methodist church, followed by silent prayer. "The Sixth Word" will be the subject of a discussion by the Rev. Louis P. Chastain, pastor of the Cresapton Methodist church. This will be followed by a hymn and silent prayer, after which Miss Doris Blant will sing "The Holy Hour."

The Rev. H. A. Kester, pastor of Kingsley Methodist church, will discuss "The Seventh Word," followed by a hymn and silent prayer. The closing prayer and benediction and the organ postlude will close the service.

Flowers which will be used on the altar for the service are being donated by Mrs. W. R. Deetz in memory of her sister, Mrs. O. S. Wilson and her brother, Ferman G. Pugh.
